Doing business internationally

Do you wish to be a game changer in the global market for trade in food, flowers and wood? Are you ready to contemplate future changes in international trade? Do you find innovation, marketing, change management, trade and entrepreneurship fascinating subjects? Then International Agribusiness and Trade is the study programme for you.

Dynamic professional field

Did you know that, after the United States, the Netherlands is the biggest exporter of agribusiness products? Our robust international position offers you plenty of opportunities. Graduates with knowledge and know-how of international marketing, export, sustainability, consultancy, project management, trade and diverse cultures are in great demand. And companies are looking for people who are enterprising and speak their languages. You will learn all this with us. Your expert knowledge of the agribusiness sector ensures you stand out. Will you be the international business expert who knows the ins and outs about setting up agribusiness chains or making them sustainable. Who will devise the innovative business solutions for the food questions of tomorrow? Who knows how to introduce new earning models? The world is your oyster!

“From day one, I learned about complete production processes and supply chains, from start to finish. Very interesting!”
